$50,000 FOR NEW BRIDGES CONFRONTS CENTRE CO.

Land Damages and Detour Maintenances Means $25,000 More.

1925 A COSTLY YEAR

Bridge building, maintenance of detours, and damages to private lands, resulting from relocating sections of state highways, will unquestionably place upon Centre County the biggest single item of expense during the term of Commissioners Searly, Swabb and Austin. Bridges, alone, will cost the County upward of $50,000. Land damages and maintenance of detours may amount to half as much more.

There is just a bare possibility that the cost of rebuilding three bridges on the scheduled concrete highway in Bald Eagle valley may be placed upon the State, but this is so remote that the County Commissioners have little hope for an even break in their favor. The higher courts have ruled that bridges of greater span than 8 feet on turnpikes revert to counties, which in turn must bear the cost of reconstruction. Originally, it is claimed, the route in question was an old plank road, and not a turnpike. This half line distinction is all that stands between Centre County and an item of about $18,000 for three bridges. The County Commissioners hope that a legal ruling that the road cannot be classed as a turnpike will place this cost upon the State. If not, it will be up to Centre County to pay the bill when the Bald Eagle highway is built next year. It will be the rebuilding of this highway that will also place upon Centre County a heavy item of expense for land damages and maintenance of detours. In eliminating several dangerous curves in the present route, the new highway will pass through farm lands, which will have to be appraised and paid for by Centre County. The bridge over Wallace Run will have to be rebuilt by Centre County, regardless of any legal ruling relative to the three other bridges farther up the valley. The State Highway Department has decided to build the highway, and Centre County will have no alternative but to pay such costs as legally fall upon it.

It was stated at the office of the County Commissioners that the cost of rebuilding the five or six bridges on the present toll road from Millheim to Coburn cannot be shifted upon Penn Township, but that Centre County will have to foot the bill. This will run into something like $20,000 or $25,000. It was pointed out that the only hope for relief for Centre County lies in the possibility that government assistance may be secured. This is based on the fact that the road constitutes a direct mail route from Coburn to Millheim. As was explained in "The Republican" last week, the County Board of Road Viewers have appraised this road at $2,000. It will have to be taken over by Centre County, for $2,000 or possibly more, and the first thing confronting the County Commissioners will be the rebuilding of the bridges, most of which are in very bad shape.

Centre County is also liable for the cost of reconstructing the Spring Mills bridge. This will add something like $2,000 to the bridge account. Originally the State Highway Department classed this as an item to be paid by the State, and went so far as to secure large title for the work. After matters had reached this stage, the State Highway Department ruled that the cost of the bridge properly belonged to Centre County, and the County has to stand for it. There has been considerable negotiation between the State Highway Department and the County Commissioners, with the result that an amicable adjustment has been effected. By this arrangement, the State Highway Department will contribute the title on hand, and Centre County will pay for putting them in place, also paying for building wing walls and approaches.

All told, it looks like costly times in 1925 for Centre County. The people want improvements, and improvements cost money—usually, a lot of money.

Thomas Reunion.

The first annual reunion of the Thomas families of Half-moon valley was held last Saturday at the J. A. McClellan home, nearby Stormstown. About 120 members of the clan and friends were in attendance, and a most enjoyable time was had by all. It was decided to hold next year's reunion at the David Thomas home, in Half-moon valley.

May Sell Bush House Today. Stewart & Davis, of Tyrone and Pittsburgh, who have been negotiating for the purchase of the Bush House, are expected to close the deal today.

$530,000 AND UPWARD ESTATE OF A. G. MORRIS

Large Bequests to Family, Relatives, Church and Hospital.

HALF PLACED IN TRUST

The will of the late Hon. A. G. Morris, which was probated on Tuesday, disposes of an estate estimated in value at $530,000, and upward. Approximately one-fourth is given in direct bequests to his daughter and sons, and to the Bellefonte Presbyterian church and Bellefonte Hospital. Another approximate one-fourth is placed in trust for ten years, the interest or income from which is for grand-children, who with one exception at the expiration of that time receive the principal. The remainder of the estate is placed in trust for the life benefit of children, the principal finally going to grand-children. The Peoples Savings & Trust Co., of Pittsburgh, is delegated to handle trust funds. The executors named are Miss Eliza Egbert Morris, a daughter; Thomas K. Morris and Charles A. Morris, sons, and Frank K. Lukenbach, president of the Blair County National Bank, of Tyrone, who succeeded Mr. Morris as president of that institution, and who was for many years an intimate friend of the deceased. W. Harrison Walker, of Bellefonte, is attorney for the estate, the bulk of which is composed of preferred and common stock in the American Lime & Stone Co.

The will was drawn on May 18th, 1923, and was witnessed by C. M. Parrish and Postmaster John L. Kniesly, both of Bellefonte. A codicil, drafted nearly one year ago, added one to the three originally named as executors, and modified a bequest to a grandson, Thomas K. Morris, Jr., by providing that he should receive the interest, only, and not eventually the principal, or $20,000, placed in trust for him for ten years. In his case it is designated that he shall not receive the principal, but that it shall go to his legal issue. If he shall die without such issue, the $20,000 shall revert to the estate.

An important provision in the will declares that if any beneficiary shall be dissatisfied, or shall enter legal proceedings of any kind, or character, against the will, in part or in whole, such person shall forfeit his or her bequest, or bequests, and shall be cut off with $1. This provision effectually disposes of any attempt to contest the will, should such be contemplated by beneficiaries. The principal bequests of the will, disposing of the estate estimated as comprising $500,000 in personal property, and $30,100 in real estate, follow:

To Eliza Egbert Morris, the daughter, the homestead, on East Linn Street, with all its contents. Also the "California Quarry," nearby Tyrone Forge, leased by the Pittsburgh Lime & Stone Co., and located on about 135 acres of land. Also farm near Freeport, in Butler County, comprising 165 acres, of which 55 acres have been sold, but the coal and

HOSPITAL NOTES

J. T. Harnish Given Contract for New Wing Foundations.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Centre County Hospital, Sept. 9, John T. Harnish, being the lowest bidder, was given the contract for the excavation and foundations for the new wing. Mr. Harnish has begun the work.

The final general plans were presented by Chairman Moore, of the Building Committee, and approved. The committee was authorized to advertise for bids for the work. Copies of the plans have been sent to the Department of Labor and Industry and the State Welfare Department for approval.

The doctors who were recently elected to the hospital staff, and who have pleasantly signified their acceptance, are LeRoy Locke, G. H. Woods, G. S. Frank, H. S. Braucht, W. J. Kurtz, P. H. Dale, J. L. Barlett and J. T. Ritzenour.

The annual corporate meeting will be held on Oct. 13, at 8 P. M., at the Court House. A new board of trustees will be elected at this meeting. Prior to the annual meeting a petition to change the name of the hospital to the Centre County Hospital will be presented to the Court.

A deed for a lot in Mussel Shoals, given by Mrs. Ella J. Mountz, during the recent drive, was received by the board.

The board authorized the publication of the by-laws of the hospital in pamphlet form, copies of which will be distributed to the public.

The Forest Fire Organization and Its Purpose. (Article I)

Recent years have served to awaken the people of both State and Nation to the dire need of protecting our forests. Of the countless destructive agencies which prey upon them, fire is the one great enemy we must strive to conquer. The forests, we know, will never be immune from fire, for there are agencies not attributed to the destructive hand of man, but man in an advanced, educated state can, if he will, serve as a barrier toward the unnecessary and terrible waste caused by the spreading of fire due to these agencies.

MEANS OF EDUCATION

All means imaginable are being employed by State and Nation to educate the people to the great need of protecting our forests from fire. Motion pictures of educational value have been taken of the forests. The eternal aim is to show man's relation to forest products and how unprogressive he would be without them. This means of education has possibly been the most effective. For the first time these pictures were shown in the Penn Forest District during the summer of 1922. Approximately 3,000 people attended. Facts, as never before, were shown and not so apt to be forgotten. Pictures were again shown in 1924, just prior to the opening of the spring forest fire season with an attendance of over 3,500. Interest was manifested from the very first showing. A greater degree of effectiveness than ever before was shown during the fire season which closely followed.

Of the 19 forest fires occurring in the Penn Forest District during the spring of 1924 only 23.8 acres of forest burned. $31.50 was expended to extinguish these fires, and the damage amounted to only $33.50. Of these 19 fires only 7 were attended by forest fire wardens. And of these 7 fires 4 were extinguished by interested citizens before wardens arrived. This bespeaks a day like Germany now enjoys when sufficient interest and action on the part of local citizens will render a forest fire organization unnecessary.

Signs in the Penn Forest District help play an important part. Their message carries an appeal which will be heeded by all public-spirited citizens. Perhaps more than any other "Prevent Forest Fires—It Pays," the appropriate and effective slogan, blazes forth from forest-skirted highways.

The great need brought before the public's gaze through the newspapers is a great help. Read by many and remembered always by those who think.

Letters to sportsmen, Boy Scouts, and other organizations prove effective. The cooperation is felt and greatly appreciated.

Results have been attained pleasing and gratifying to the Department of Forestry. People are beginning to see the great objective, to experience a more dogged determination to expatriate the deadly forest fire. Sportsmen are up in arms against it, not so much because of the economic value of the forest, but because it destroys that which they seek. Nature lovers abhor it because of the ugliness and repulsive results of its greed.

The beautiful objective is, then, for all to become more intimately acquainted with the best of our scenic assets, and nourish a truer appreciation of their worth. This would lead increasing numbers to a keener consciousness of the fact that we must preserve the trees that grow in the forests, not only because of their value, but because of their beauty and charm.

THE ORGANIZATION

Prior to 1915 the Department was more or less handicapped in their earnest endeavor to suppress forest fires. First, lack of funds to carry on an appropriate system of detection and suppression. Second, the indifferent attitude of the people in their relation to the Department's efforts.

Since 1915 conditions have improved to a great extent. Pressing need of protection has been taught with patience and vigor. Individuals and organizations fairly saturated with the spirit and need have enlisted themselves into the service. Steel towers have been erected on the high mountain tops and manned by efficient men during the dry season of spring and fall. Telephones connect these towers with the outside world. Specially designed tools for fire fighting are being used by the Department. Fire trails are kept clean against the possible spread of fire. Roads into the most remote parts of the forest are maintained to afford quick attack of fire.

PERSONNEL

The personnel of the Penn Forest District deserves no little mention. Upon them rests the responsibility of keeping fire from approximately 275,000 acres of forest. Team work on the part of the entire personnel is the only means of assured success. Each and every minute detail must have attention, to keep the organization in perfect motion. The personnel in the Penn Forest District comprises the following: District Forester; 3 Forest Rangers; 1 Inspector; 53 Forest Fire Wardens, and 2 Towermen.

The first in command is the District Forester, who directs all activities, has a check on all reports and bills and investigations; sees to it that every cog in the big wheel is doing its part. In extreme cases takes personal charge of forest fires. Next in command is the Forest Ranger. He is responsible to the Forester for all protective measures adopted and carried out upon his range. Takes charge of fires whenever possible. Supervises and directs in the absence of the Forester.

Inspectors employed during the dry seasons are always present at fires in their jurisdiction. Render all help possible in determining the cause of the fire and the party responsible. Inspects and offers recommendation as to disposal of forest fire hazards. Conducts investigations and makes a written report for all fires occurring within his jurisdiction. It is the duty of the Forest Fire Warden to respond at all fires reported to him or coming to his notice. He is urged to have at his call a crew of regular, trained men for quick response. He shall have full charge of the fire in the absence of the Forester, Ranger or Inspector.

The towermen are the eyes of the organization. Upon them rests the responsibility of detecting and locating the forest fire as quickly and accurately as possible. He knows the location of each warden. When smoke is spotted he is talking with the warden in that territory often in less than five minutes after fire has started. He names the locality and insists upon prompt action. He keeps the forester informed from time to time on the progress of the fire, whether he thinks more help is needed or whether the fire is conquered.

Cow Testing Report for August.

Tester Willard Straw, of the Centre County Cow Testing Association, reports for the month of August, 19 cows tested with 194 cows in milk and 45 dry. Of this number 6 produced over 40 pounds fat and 2 over 50 pounds fat; 11 produced over 1,000 pounds of milk and 9 over 1200 pounds. The following is a list of the owners and names of the 10 highest cows in butter-fat production:

HELD FOR COURT.

Several Charged With Bootlegging Enter Pleas of Guilty.

Harry Diem, of Philipaburg, pleaded guilty to selling liquor illegally before Squire Byron, at that place. Upon his failure to procure $500 bail he is being held in the Centre County jail for September court.

George Long, arrested on September 3 by the State Police, accused of selling liquor at the Grange picnic, pleaded guilty before Squire Drees, and was held for Court.

Bert Lyle, of State College, arrested on the same charge as Long, was also held for Court. Theodore Taylor, also of State College, was held on a similar charge.

Mrs. Harry Miller, of near Boalsburg, was arrested, charged with selling wine of an illegal alcoholic content. According to the testimony of State Policeman Jesse King, the accused sold him a quart of wine for $1.50. He then obtained a search warrant and found two more quarts in her home.

Girl Killed Accidentally.

Margaret, 15 years old daughter of Andrew McDowell, of Snow Shoe, was shot and killed accidentally Wednesday night at the Clarence garage. With several other young folks, she was examining a revolver in the hands of George Pinchok, when it was unexpectedly discharged. The bullet entered below the heart and she died before she could be removed to the hospital. It was stated by those present that Mr. Pinchok had "broken" the revolver and was in the act of closing it when the shot was fired, and Miss McDowell collapsed.

MUSSER MURDER TRIAL FEATURES NEXT COURT

Three Defendants Likely to Request Separate Trials.

HEAVY CRIMINAL LIST

What will probably be the most widely discussed case which has been tried in Centre County courts in a long time will come up at the next term, which opens Monday, Sept. 22. It is the Musser murder trial and the probability is that each of the three men implicated will demand a separate trial. Due to the fact that there is such a small panel of jurors, Judge Quigley will request that women jurors be present at the opening of Court. This departure from the court's usual custom is necessitated by the fact that a man on trial for his life may demand that the full panel of jurors be present. However, women will be excused from jury duty, as usual. An unusually large number of criminal cases will be heard, many of them having to do with the violation of the liquor laws.

Following are the criminal cases listed on the docket for the September court.

Com. vs. Ira Gill. Charge defrauding board bill. Prosecutrix Mrs. Martha Johnston.

Com. vs. Frank Sciortino. Petition for appeal.

Com. vs. Leslie Wanda. Charge violation of liquor laws. Prosecutor Chas. F. Leitzel.

Com. vs. Herbert Hockenbery. Charge attempting to defraud. Prosecutor G. M. Nearhood.

Com. vs. N. R. Lembroux. Charge larceny as bailie. Prosecutor Raymond E. Askey.

Com. vs. John Batchler. Charge aggravated assault and battery and threats to kill. Prosecutor John F. Harper.

Com. vs. William H. Kutz. Charge violation of the liquor laws. Prosecutors J. S. McKewen and D. F. Brink.

Com. vs. Clayton H. Krebs. Charge, operating motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and carrying concealed deadly weapons. Prosecutor A. D. Shank.

Com. vs. Gralford Casher. Charge, betrayal. Prosecutor Rebecca Beals.

Com. vs. Harry Musser. Charge, murder. Prosecutor E. R. Taylor, sheriff.

CROSS UNVEILED

Argonne Cross Unveiled at Boalsburg in Honor of Gen. Sigerfoos.

One of the most beautiful and impressive ceremonies that the writer has ever witnessed took place at Boalsburg, on Saturday afternoon, when the Argonne Cross, at the foot of which General Sigerfoos was mortally wounded, was unveiled. The slanting rays of the late afternoon sun struck through the dripping leaves just as the ceremony began, lighting up the flag draped cross with an almost holy radiance. Directly behind the cross a beautiful rainbow became visible over the hill, all of which lent to the simple little ceremony an impressiveness which struck deep into the hearts of the comparatively small group who attended.

General Shannon was in charge of the ceremony and after a short but highly instructive talk on the purpose of the affair, introduced the other speakers. Jules Henry, a member of the French Embassy at Washington, formally presented the cross and unveiled it. General Edward Martin spoke of the manner in which General Sigerfoos, who was the only American General killed during the war, died. General Muir was the next speaker. Mr. Henry was accompanied by Captain DeValleson Rigal, naval attaché at the French embassy. A brief memorial service was held in honor of Gen. Asher Miner, of Wilkes-Barre, whose obituary was carried in last week's paper. By a curious coincidence it so happened that Gen. Miner was seriously wounded about a quarter of a mile from the cross under which Gen. Sigerfoos died. A flag covered cannon was placed to the right of the shrine and a wreath laid upon it in honor of Gen. Miner. The band played an appropriate hymn while the Major General's salute of nine guns was fired. The flag which draped the cannon was brought from Wilkes-Barre by a detachment of four men, and was the same which covered the casket of General Muir during the military funeral last week. Colonel Robert Vall was given the honor of placing the wreath on the memorial cannon.

PRIZE WINNERS NAMED AS GRANGE PICNIC ENDS

Complete List of Victors for First and Second Honors.

HIGH RECORDS SCORED

The various committees in charge of the Grange picnic which closed last week have every reason to be proud of themselves and of their efforts to make the affair a success. There were more attractions, more tenters, larger crowds, and more exhibits than ever before. Since the old Centre County fair has been abandoned the Grange picnic has become the largest get-together of the year, and it is annually becoming of more importance.

Following is a list of prizes awarded at the close of the fair:

HORSES

First prizes: W F Rishel, Centre Hall; William Immel, Bellefonte. Second prizes: W F Rishel, William O Immel, Pony, 1st prize: Marvin Ishler, Centre Hall.

DAIRY CATTLE

Holstein, 1st prize: Paul Bradford, J Fred Slack, H C Reish, Centre Hall; Hartle brothers, Bellefonte. Second prizes: Hartle Brothers, Bellefonte; W F Rishel, J Fred Slack, H C Reish, Centre Hall.

Guernsey, 1st prizes: Mayes & Confer, Howard; E H Hosterman, Rebersburg; Shook Brothers, Spring Mills. Second: Mayes & Confer, E H Hosterman, Shook Brothers.

Milking shorthorn, 1st: Perry Luse, Centre Hall. Second, Perry Luse.

Jersey, 1st: R C Bair, Smulton.

Swine, 1st: W F Rishel, James L Decker, Centre Hall; A C Kepler Penna. Furnace; A C Hartle, Bellefonte. Second, W F Rishel, A C Hartle, A C Kepler.

Sheep 1st: Perry Luse, E C Lutz, Centre Hall; M K Green, Oak Hall; John Hollenbach, Astrousburg; M T Z...

GUARDS ASK HEARING

Say They Are Denied Control Over
Pittsburgh Convicts.

Guards at the Western Penitentiary, through a committee, have petitioned the board of trustees of the institution for a hearing on matters pertaining to the rights of the guards when subjected to insolence and insults by prisoners while in the performance of their duties. It is understood the trustees will grant a hearing at a meeting of the board to be held today at the penitentiary.

Some of the guards, it is said, hold that they are subjected to insults and insolent treatment by the convicts without adequate authority to protect themselves. They say that they have been spat upon, cursed and otherwise assailed and have been without power to administer corporal punishment on the offenders or to confine them to solitary imprisonment.

Mrs. Lucy Dorsey Iams, acting chairman of the board of trustees, said at Pittsburgh that the complaints of the guards would be investigated carefully and such action taken as the situation seemed to merit. Mrs. Iams recently spent several days here inquiring into conditions at Rockview. It was said that she expressed disapproval of publicity given by "The Republican" to affairs at Rockview which led to the escape of some convicts in one day and the summoning of state policemen to enforce discipline.

"The board of trustees is trying to give a fair deal to both guards and prisoners," said Mrs. Iams, at Pittsburgh, in regard to the petition for a hearing. "We are not 'softies' trying to conduct a prison from a sentimental point of view, but all members of the board are hard-headed business and professional men and women who understand the conditions which exist and must be met in a penal institution. We are trying to see, in common with penal institutions all over the world, whether it is not possible to mitigate some of the severe punishments and cruelties formerly inflicted upon prisoners without causing the discipline to be lowered. This is largely experimental in our prison, as in other similar institutions. If it is found that some of the prisoners take undue advantage of their liberties, the reins will have to be tightened."

"We are seeking to do a constructive work at a great sacrifice of time and effort."

"What we are striving to do, primarily," continued Mrs. Iams, "is to have the men leave the prison less a menace to society than when they entered its walls."

Chinese Discovered Illinois, He Says

Asserts Orientals Painted Piasa Bird Centuries Ago.

Springfield, Ill.—Chinese explorers, antedating Balboa, and perhaps Columbus, discovered Illinois four or five centuries ago and set the flag of the Chinese empire on the cliffs above Alton, according to E. W. Payne, a local banker, who for many years has collected Indian relics and studied the early history of the western hemisphere.

"When Balboa rushed into the Pacific, carrying the flag of Spain, he didn't have even a druggist's prescription for one-half pint of the water of the sea," Payne says.

"At the time Columbus discovered America, Cahokia was probably the capital of North America and the most important western city north of old Mexico. It was situated at the junction of the Illinois, Missouri and Kaskaskia rivers with the Mississippi and was near the mouth of the Ohio.

"The country was thickly populated. Probably there were as many people in the country districts as there are today. The bluffs of the Mississippi river were used as a graveyard and the western coast of the Americas was thickly settled from Alaska to Patagonia.

Old When Pyramids Were Built.

"Balboa lived with these people for two years and was told again and again about the Pacific. Finally, with a guard of 150 Indians he ventured to cross the divide and claim the Pacific for Spain.

"As he did it, he was standing over ruins that were old when the pyramids were built. If he had been attending a big league ball game today he would have drawn a seat in the grass in front of the bleachers. He was the last one through the gate. The Pacific had been discovered and rediscovered again and again before he arrived, and every island in it of any importance was inhabited.

"Before Balboa reached the Pacific and probably about the time that Columbus was landing on the eastern extremity of North America, Chinese explorers arrived at the west coast of the country, and, following the best marked trails, the Platte trail and the Clark trail, which was centuries old before Clark ever saw it, they penetrated to the Mississippi river and the capital of the continent at Cahokia.

"Like Columbus and Balboa they claimed the country, and in doing so placed the Chinese flag on the cliffs at Alton. This was later known as the Piasa bird. Superficial examination of the painting shows that it is undoubtedly a Chinese dragon, the national emblem of the empire.

Probably Never Returned Home.

"In those days there were no afternoon editions. It is doubtful if anyone in China knew what the hardy explorers were about. They may have been members of a crew of Chinese pirates, or they may have been adventurers who sailed into unknown seas out of curiosity.

"Furthermore, in those days travel was so difficult that pioneers never expected to return to their homes. The European explorers returned to report to their kings, but the Chinese probably carried all they owned with them. It is improbable that they ever returned, or that their discovery was ever announced. Only the painting of the dragon, or Piasa bird, remained to tell of their journey.

"The time of this exploration is very hard to fix. Limestone weathers easily, and, as the dragon could still be seen 50 years ago, it seems improbable that it was painted more than five centuries ago.

"The theory that the dragon was painted by aborigines of Oriental stock is not tenable as it could not have survived on the cliffs that long. There is no doubt in my mind that it was painted by the Chinese explorers who came at a recent date, historically speaking.

"The Piasa bird, which is supposed to have been seen for the first time by a

First Mail Plane Motor to Museum

Washington.—The engine used in a Bieriot monoplane to carry the first aerial mail in the United States has been presented to the Smithsonian Institution by Earl Ovington, a Santa Barbara (Cal.) aviator, who, in 1911, was sworn in as the first aerial postman.

The official document, bearing the signature of Postmaster General Hitchcock and Chief Inspector Morgan of New York also will be presented to the institution, together with a sample of mail carried on the first trip and a photograph of the plane.

white man when Joliet floated down the Mississippi, was for centuries one of the most mysterious of the stone drawings, or petroglyphs, in America. It was quarried away more than 50 years ago and the original was lost.

Herbert Forende, a member of the Alton boy scouts, is now preparing to repaint the dragon on the cliffs. The work of smoothing and facing the bluffs is now in progress.

Sight of Children Is Being Neglected

Small Percentage Receives Tests, Says Survey.

New York.—Only 4,227,702 of the 24,000,000 school children in the United States received eye tests in 1923, according to a preliminary report issued by the Eye Sight Conservation Council of America embodying the initial findings of a nationwide survey of eye conservation in education and industry.

The survey, which covers the results of testing the eyes of more than 10,000,000 students extending over a period of 16 years, discloses, it is asserted, that the eyesight of children in the public schools throughout the nation is being neglected.

"The eyesight of children in the public schools throughout the United States is not being given proper attention," says the report. "Even simple tests to detect the most evident cases of defective vision are not made generally. A very low percentage of the total enrollment receives eyesight tests of any kind. In the schools where tests are made there are wide differences in the results obtained. This indicates that in many schools the tests are made very superficially and that a uniform procedure is not observed in making the tests."

Cause of Retardation.

John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, and a member of the board of counselors of the Eye Sight Conservation Council, says that defective vision is believed to contribute toward retardation. Commenting on the disclosure of the survey, which, he points out, should tend to develop an important field of education which has been too long neglected, Commissioner Tigert declares:

"The establishment of a consciousness of the need of attacking physical defects among our school children as a part of our educational program can scarcely be over emphasized. This is peculiarly true with reference to eyesight, because defective vision interferes more with educational progress than any other defect of sensation.

"Experience has clearly established that tests for defective vision may be carried out advantageously by the teachers. It is important to emphasize that suitable provisions are not now made for training teachers, school nurses and health inspectors in the methods of making tests. The council is doing a splendid job in helping to secure such provision."

LONG CHASE ENDED

Harry Dunlap, called the "badger bandit" because of his practice of wearing a deputy sheriff's badge during holdups, who has been captured and is being held in a Los Angeles jail after having been hunted throughout the country for over a year. The crimes charged against him include murder, criminal assault and robbery. The most serious crime for which he was indicted was the murder of William Jacobson of Pasadena, Cal., during a holdup last January.

The data from which the council's report was prepared was gathered from widely different sources, including reports of state departments of education and state boards of health since 1907, covering 6,000,000 eye examinations, and municipal reports since 1907 covering 3,500,000 examinations. The recent statistics obtained through data obtained from public schools of 247 cities.

Few Receive Tests.

"Only a small number of school children receive periodic eyesight tests at regular intervals," continues the council's report. The council has verified this statement in two ways, first by a summary of replies from state officials and second by a summary of replies from city school superintendents.

Simple visual acuity tests reveal that 25 per cent of the school children in the United States have manifest defects of vision and symptoms of eyestrain. More thorough examinations indicate that over 50 per cent of school children have eye defect of sufficient degree to warrant correction. There is no uniform method for testing eyesight, says the report.

Eye tests as made in the public schools are merely tests for keenness of vision and reveal but a portion of eye errors, according to the council, which says that especially in children a large proportion of eye defects are hidden, and while the child is contending with the defect, his keenness of vision is not affected.

Aged Woman to Fight for Unsettled Estate

Camden, N. J.—The myth of a $1,000,000,000 estate remaining unsettled in New York was revived by the announcement by Miss Irene Powers, eighty-two years old, of Camden, that she intended to try to obtain a portion of the land supposed to have been left by Anneke Jans Bogardus. She said that she still hoped to share in the property, which comprises 62 acres between Broadway and the Hudson river, and includes the sites of the Woolworth building, Trinity church and other structures.

Although she has knowledge of the many futile attempts of this kind in the past, Miss Powers insists that she will pass her remaining years seeking to obtain millions which she declares are hers by right of inheritance.

Anneke Jans Bogardus inherited the property from her first husband, Roelof Jans, who bought it in 1636. She was supposed to have left the property under a 99-year lease to its occupants, with the understanding that it would revert to her heirs when the period expired. Actually, the property was transferred to the governor of the province, and later presented to Trinity church by Queen Anne.

On this flimsy evidence thousands of descendants of Anneke Jans have made attempts to acquire riches. The claim was outlawed by the New York State Court of Appeals in 1856, and again in 1881. Swindlers have repeatedly capitalized the story by luring supposed heirs into schemes for recovering the estate.

MILLIONS IN BACK PAY NOW IN SIGHT

Payment of millions of dollars in back compensation to disabled World war veterans depends upon the outcome of a controversy between the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion and the United States veterans' bureau.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, has issued preliminary instructions to field offices that payment of retroactive compensation to those persons whose cases have been presumptively connected with service under section 200 of the World war veterans' act of 1924, may not be made for any period before the date of the approval of the act on June 7, 1924. Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion committee, has taken issue with this view.

Mr. Miller declares that there is in the phrasing of the law a "definite suggestion of retroactivity in that the time a man acquired his disability is placed back within a period now some years remote."

No claims which have been connected with service by historical facts, wherein under the provisions of section 210 of the act compensation may be paid retroactively for one year prior to the filing of the claim, the amount depending upon the physical condition of the claimant during that period, are affected by the bureau's preliminary ruling. It was pointed out. The Legion purposes, it was learned, to place upon the same status those claims which have now been connected with service through the operation of the "presumptive" clause of the new act.

The importance of the ruling can easily be recognized when it is stated that during the first month of operation under the presumptive provision 2,800 tuberculous, 2,500 neuropsychiatric and 250 amoebic dysentery cases, making a total of 5,500 claims, were connected with service and placed upon a compensable basis. These cases alone, at the hospital rate, it was declared, involve a half-million dollars in compensation each month.

If the Legion wins its point, the benefits to the men involved would be enormous. The fact that the bureau has not yet issued a permanent regulation covering this point, although more than two months have passed since the passage of the act, is taken to indicate the possibility of a favorable decision.

New York Elks Praise Massachusetts Legion

Expressing appreciation of the courtesy of the American Legion in assigning a detail of service men for the assistance and accommodation of the visiting Elks in convention at Boston recently, the New York Elks sent a letter to General Edwards, commander of the Massachusetts Legion, as follows:

"I am sure you will be pleased to learn that the men conducted themselves admirably and made a very pretty showing in the parade. We received all along the line of march applause, and I feel that much of this was due to the fact that we had these men at the head of our line. The young men whom you sent were indeed fine examples of sturdy soldiery and American ruggedness. Signed, New York Elks."

Must Not Delay Filing Compensation Claims

Advice from the national headquarters of the American Legion at Indianapolis, urges all ex-service men not to delay in the filing of their adjusted compensation claims as a "safety first" measure. There is a provision of the compensation law, section 601, whereby only the face value of the insurance policy will be paid beneficiaries if the veteran dies before filing his claim, whereas, if the claim has been filed, beneficiaries receive the matured value of the policy. The Legion points out that, inasmuch as there are two veterans' deaths in the United States every time the hour hand passes from one hour to the next, there is real danger in careless delay in filing of applications.

Uncle Sam Reports to Legion on Insurance

The United States government, biggest insurance company in the world, is not maintaining the reputation of insurance companies as to profits, according to figures recently released to American Legion officials in Washington regarding the war risk term insurance. In May, 1924, the total amount of money received by the veterans' bureau in premiums on war risk term insurance policies was approximately $420,000,000. The total payments made by the bureau up to that time for permanent disability and death claims were more than $52,000,000. In addition, the government still has liabilities against it for unpaid installments of death and total disability claims of more than $1,000,000,000.

IOWA LEGION MAN DRAWS PROMOTION

Outstanding work as commander of Monahan post of the American Legion at Sioux City, Iowa, in 1923, when that post shattered all membership records and became the second largest post in the world, won for Horace F. Wulf the command of the Eleventh Congressional district of the Iowa department. Wulf has just been advanced to the district command. His predecessor, O. P. Bennet, resigned to make the race for county attorney of Monona county, Iowa.

The new district commander has been very active in the work of the Legion ever since his discharge from Camp Hospital No. 6 on July 15, 1919.

Horace F. Wulf.

He became sergeant at arms of Monahan post, the editor of the Monahan Post News, then post commander. During his term of office as commander, the post signed up 2,942 members.

Wulf saw 17 months of army service. Eight of these he spent in training at Camp Cody, New Mexico, where he was with the Thirty-fourth or Sandstorm division. He served overseas for nine months.

Born and reared in Sioux City, Wulf is a graduate of Morningside college. He is engaged in newspaper work in that city.

Scalpers Will Lose Out in Endeavor to Profit

After the passage of the adjusted compensation bill recently, came rumors that "scalpers" were attempting to buy up for cash at large discounts the adjusted compensation certificates of World war veterans. Such "purchases" by scalpers will be met by drastic action on the part of the veterans' bureau, and will result in the scalper finding himself with only "a scrap of paper," was the declaration of Gen. Frank Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, to representatives of the American Legion.

Attention of the veterans' bureau was called to an advertisement in which a veteran offered to sell his certificate "to the highest cash bidder." Bureau officials were also advised of reports that a huge financial pool is being organized for the purpose of buying up compensation certificates in the hope of large profits at the expense of the veteran and of the government.

In reply to the above reports, the following telegram was sent by General Hines: "No certificate issued or right conferred under the World war compensation act shall be negotiable or assignable; neither will such certificate or any right conferred serve as security for any loan except as provided in section 502 of the act, which provides for loans from banks under certain conditions. Any other negotiations or assignments are void."

Legion Home Company, New Ohio Institution

The American Legion Home company, of Conneaut, Ohio, was recently incorporated at Conneaut, under the state laws of Ohio and received its charter in which the following provisions were included: "This corporation is formed for the purpose of promoting, assisting and fostering civic organizations, for the support and advancement of patriotic principles through local and community groups and societies organized for charity, education and recreation." According to a Legion official, the company has $11,000 with which to start the ball rolling on its Community Betterment campaign.

Soldier Peddler Law Is Regarded as Unfair

The so-called "soldier peddler" law in effect in the state of Minnesota should be repealed, according to a resolution passed by the state legislative committee of the American Legion of Minnesota. The law enables former service men to peddle without a license. The Legion points out that under the law many outsiders have come into the state at various times and competed with local merchants who are paying taxes and who are deserving of the patronage of the consumer. The Legion legislative body also suggested that a law prohibiting aliens from teaching in the grade schools be passed.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Back Weak and Painful. Mrs. Miller Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rotan, Texas.—"I am writing to let you know how I have been benefited by taking your medicine. After my second baby was born my back was weak and hurt me continually, so I thought I'd try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had read so much about where it had helped so many women. I had been bothered with my back for over a year, and it would hurt me until I could not do my work, which is keeping house for three and cooking and washing dishes. I tell all my friends if they have any kind of female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. You may use this testimonial if it will help any one."—Mrs. C. R. MILLER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 76, Rotan, Texas.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

their ice-armored garments. After changing clothing a bushel of ice that had fallen off in the process was swept from the floor.

Brave Death on Lake.

For several years George and Charley Morrison were employed as carriers on the Bass Island route. They, too, passed through many arduous and trying experiences, being victims of many close calls. Out on the lake in all kinds of weather, with ice conditions of every description, they battled with storm, running ice, fog and blinding snow.

Formerly associated with George Morrison in the mail-carrying service was his brother-in-law, Carl Robert. The two were unexpectedly overtaken by an accident which resulted in the drowning of Robert. Among the articles carried was a long, unwieldy piece of metal. This, in some way, shifted, capsizing the boat. Morrison found himself struggling in the water. With great difficulty he succeeded in extricating himself, but Robert was carried under the ice. His body was not recovered until late the following spring.

Henry Elfers carried the mails to Kelley's Island for over forty years. During that time he had many hair-breadth escapes and adventures galore. "When I was a youngster," said Elfers not long ago, "I was out in a boat about all the time. Now I don't care for ordinary sailing, but battling with the ice has a fascination for me. As soon as the ice begins to form I feel eager to get out one of the ironclads and fight my way across. Each is a flat-bottomed skiff. There's a sail in the bow to carry us through the water or over the ice when conditions are right. There are two iron-shod runners on the bottom so the boat may be used as a sled. The sides are sheathed with galvanized iron. This is very important because thin ice will cut a boat like a knife.

Makes Fast Time on Ice.

"From here to Sandusky is ten miles in a direct line and I go there when conditions are good. At other times I go to Marblehead, which is four miles away and the nearest point on mainland. I have sailed these four miles over smooth ice in 20 minutes. I have covered the same distance in eight hours. That was when the ice was about an inch and half thick and I had to break my way over every foot of the four miles. At times the lake has been covered with icebergs 20 to 30 feet high and I have had to travel 15 miles in a roundabout course to reach Marblehead."

Winter Period Dangerous.

During the months when navigation is open—that is, from May 1 to November 1—carrying the mail on this route is a comparatively safe occupation, and free from difficulties. It is during the winter period, however, from November 1 to May 1, that the carrier has more than a man's size job on his hands.

Let the postmaster at Detroit Harbor tell his own tale: "The chief difficulty encountered while crossing Death's Door in winter," he says, "is drifting ice fields. The ice bridge that forms in extreme cold weather hardly ever remains for more than a few days at a time. It is speedily disassembled by shifting gales and currents. Sometimes this breakup occurs so suddenly that the carrier is caught out on the ice with his horse, sleigh and mail. It is at these times that the proximity of the United States coast guard station at Plumb Island is a godsend. One such incident took place some few years ago. The breakup occurred while the carrier was transporting the mail to this side over the ice with horse and sleigh. The ice became so thoroughly broken up that in a very short time the carrier found himself on an ice cake barely large and heavy enough to hold him and his equipment.

"The coast guard crew, having noticed his plight, came to the rescue. They succeeded in getting a line out to the carrier and then towed the whole cake over to the solid ice and the carrier was enabled to walk on to more solid ice and thereby reach the mainland."

Like Jail Life So

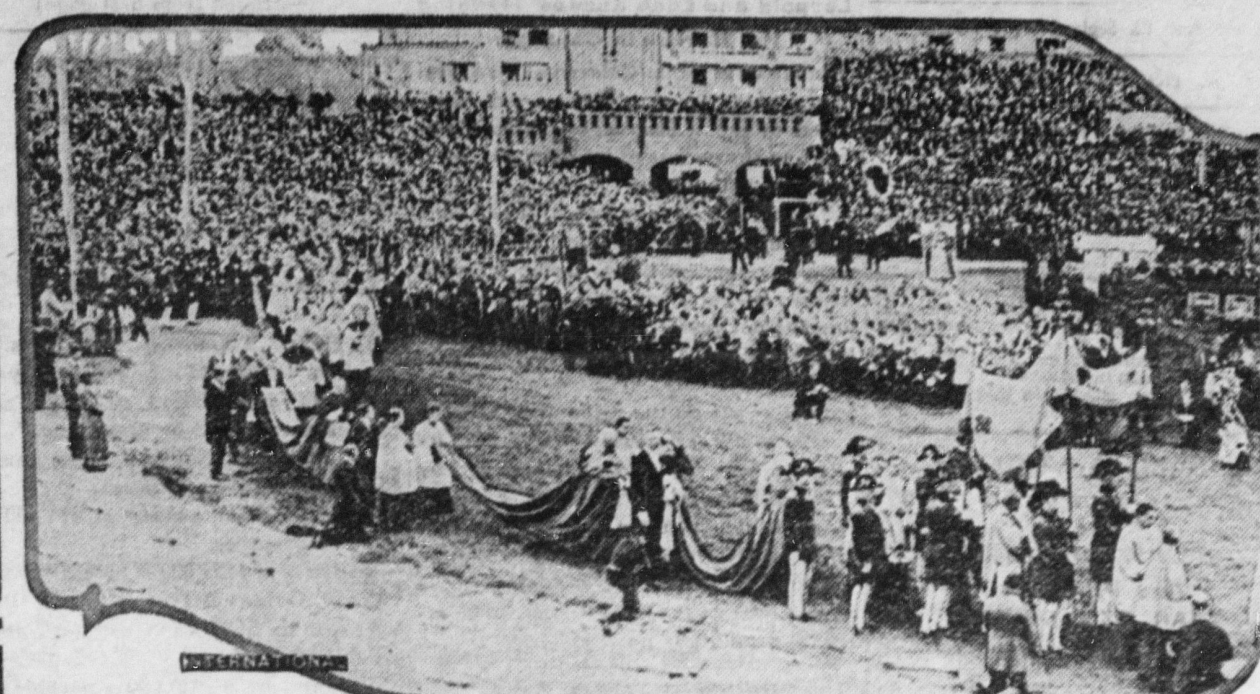

Much They Break In

Sydney, Australia.—Jail holds no terror for Kanakas—they like it so well that police in the Morobe district find it difficult to prevent the native bushmen from breaking in jail. A district officer recently sentenced a Kanaka to six months in jail, where he found rations to his liking and took pride in the uniform provided him. When his sentence expired he refused to leave the jail, and within 24 hours after he was forcibly put out of jail he "broke in" three times. Finally he was made a guard.

Fishermen Routed by Whales

New York.—Thirty-five sperm whales have been playing around the lightship off Cape May, N. J., according to men of the crew ashore. Two were so near that the men said they counted the barnacles on their backs. A crew of fishermen came ashore through fear of the visitors. Shipping men think the whales came south with the ice floes, looking for food.

Mail Carriers Battle Death

Many Unsung Heroes Die While in Performance of Duty to U. S.

Washington.—Uncle Sam has his heroes in peace time as well as in war. Records of bravery and of heroism equal to the deeds of daring performed by those patriots who have faced shot and shell of an enemy country are not lacking among the army of employees of the United States government. While the hardships encountered and the loss of life are not so great in numbers as those recorded in actual warfare, nevertheless they bear mute testimony to the valiant service rendered by these faithful servants of the people, bent on performing the difficult tasks assigned them.

And the praises of these heroes are not sung in either prose or poetry. They are not broadcast throughout the land. There is no congressional medal of honor bestowed on them; no decoration of any kind awaits them. There is not even so much as a citation for bravery and meritorious service performed in the line of duty.

But these faithful employees of Uncle Sam never complain. They are not seeking notoriety. They are content to carry on their daily labors without thought of reward other than that which goes with the consciousness of duty fulfilled.

Carry Difficult Mail Routes.

There is no class of employees of the government that faces more actual perils of life and limb and are subject to more vicissitudes of the elements in their daily routine than some of the men who carry the mails over some of the more difficult of the star routes. These men are not paid salaries, but work under contract, awarded under the law as a result of competitive bidding. It might be said that they differ from all other government employees in that they fix their own salaries.

When it is pointed out that during the last two and a half years 55 carriers have lost their lives while in the performance of duty, it will be seen that the tasks assigned them are hazardous in the extreme.

To the city dweller a reference to the mail man brings a picture of the gray-coated carrier who delivers his letters and packages unhampered to any great extent by wind or weather. But the denizen of the rural district thinks of him as the driver of a horse-drawn or motor vehicle, whose arrival is regarded as an event in the daily life of the occupant of the farm, putting him, as it does, in touch with the outside world and with his fellow man.

In January of this year Reinhold Dreahn, carrier on the star route between Buffalo and Murchison, S. D., fell a victim of duty. For several years Dreahn had been making twice-a-week trips between the two hamlets, encountering all sorts of weather conditions, but never failing to carry out his part of the contract with the Post Office department. He had started from Murchison, as usual, on a certain Saturday, and when he did not put in an appearance the next day at Buffalo, a search was made for him.

Found Frozen to Death.

He was found just one mile outside of town with both hands and feet frozen. He was dead when discovered and it is estimated he had been exposed to the intense cold for over sixteen hours. The theory advanced for his death was that, becoming exhausted from a hard day's work, and while attempting to crank his car, he fell and was not able to recover his senses before he succumbed to the cold of the night.

Records of the Post Office department show that among the most dangerous and difficult routes served by rural carriers and star route contractors are those extending from Newport to Otter Rock, Ore.; Ellison Bay to Detroit Harbor, Wis.; Rocky Bar to Atlanta, Idaho, and from Sandusky to Kelley's Island, Middle Pass and Put-in-Bay.

On the Rocky Bar-Atlanta (Idaho) route, the service is performed in the winter season by carriers traveling on snowshoes, packing 50 pounds of mail. Not infrequently carriers on this route have been caught in snowslides and swept to death. Only a year or two ago a carrier lost his life in this way early in January and his body was not recovered until late the following June.

Carriers Face Ice Peril.

The routes from Ellison Bay to Detroit Harbor, Wis., and from Sandusky, Ohio, to nearby islands must be operated over the ice in the winter and in the fall when the lake is frozen. During the spring thaw it is extremely difficult and hazardous to carry on the service. A number of carriers have lost their lives in endeavoring to transport the mails between these points.

Probably one of the most hazardous experiences that ever befell one or more of Uncle Sam's mail carriers was that of the Hitchcock brothers, carriers on the routes out of Sandusky. Some winters ago, while endeavoring to deliver mail to residents of some of the smaller islands in Lake Erie they were caught in a storm and running ice. They were carried down the lake by the resistless force of a drift in which they had become wedged. The carriers were given up for lost by the excited islanders. A cablegram wired to Kelley's Island read:

"Look out for the carriers—they are fast in the ice and drifting that way."

But the two men, after many efforts, were rescued. They were in an exhausted condition and so completely covered and weighed down with ice as to be helpless. Their caps were frozen fast to their heads and their clothes so loaded with ice that the wearers were unable to bend.

On arrival at home their friends were obliged to cut and tear away

MAN WITH PRICE ON HIS HEAD WRITES FOR PAPER

Todor Alexandroff, Macedonian Rebel Leader, Startles the People of Belgrade.

Belgrade.—While the Serbian government is offering a price for him, dead or alive, Todor Alexandroff, the Macedonian rebel leader, entered into Serbian politics the other day with an article on the first page of the Republica, which made Belgradians rub their eyes.

After pointing out that in his opinion Serbians mistakenly ascribe the unrest in Macedonia to the incompetent Pashitch administration, to provocations from Bulgaria, to the "traitor" Raditch or to the "cruel" Alexandroff, Alexandroff writes, over his signature as a member of the central committee of the Internal Macedonian organization: "All oppressed nationalities who jealously guard their nationality are struggling shoulder to shoulder to attain their right to self-determination.

"After they have won their autonomy, they will be in a position to organize a great federated state with equal rights for all nationalities.

"Neither a powerful government, able to repress the activities of revolutionary bands, nor a good administration can prevent the dissolution of Imperialistic Yugo-Slavia. The oppressed nationalities in Serbia are struggling neither for the attainment of a strong chauvinistic government nor for a wise Serbian administration (two incompatible terms), but for their liberties.

"In closing I wish to quote the words of Mazzini in 1848 about the Austrians:

"That you govern well is not what we desire, but that you depart."

10-Year-Old Panama Canal Passes Suez

World's Greatest Artificial Inter-oceanic Waterway.

Washington.—Ten years old in August, the Panama canal is such a lusty youngster that already it is outgrowing its original clothes and has Uncle Sam wondering if it will need larger garments.

"In traffic handled it has passed middle-aged, fifty-five-year-old Suez canal and is now the world's greatest artificial inter-oceanic waterway.

"At the present rate of traffic growth the canal will have to be greatly enlarged before it is three decades older.

"Such is a thumb-nail sketch of the accomplishments of America's 'Big Ditch' on the eve of its second decade," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. The waterway was formally opened to the world August 15, 1914.

"The Panama canal's birthday achievement gives the United States the proprietorship of the two busiest canals in the world, the Panama and the Sault Ste. Marie," continues the bulletin. "The latter still handles twice as much traffic as the Panama canal, although it is open only eight months of the year.

"Panama canal's ten-year record reads like the story of the traditional American boy, rising from poverty to wealth. It is a record of financial success beyond the dreams of many of its staunchest adherents; it is a record of service success; it is a triumph of sanitation; it is, as Viscount Bryce predicted, 'The greatest engineering achievement of history or of prospect.'

"In 1923 canal tolls totaled more than $17,000,000 against expenses of $4,317,000, a net profit equal to more than 8.5 per cent of the construction cost of the canal, $375,000,000. In 1923 nearly 4,000 vessels passed from ocean to ocean. But the fiscal year of 1924 far outstripped 1923. Of the 107,000,000 cargo tons transferred in the decade, more than a fourth is credited to 1924 and the tolls rose to $24,290,000. Expenditure figures are not yet available.

Canal Gets Birthday Gift.

"President Coolidge recently gave the deserving Panama canal a birthday present; an executive order putting aside 22 square miles of additional country for the Canal Zone. This acquisition will be converted into a large reservoir to save up the Chagres floods which would otherwise go over the Gatun dam spillway.

"The new Alhajuela project will further increase the size of Gatun lake, which is already the largest artificial body of water in the world.

"Ever since the Panama canal was proposed predictions of its great boon to trade have filled the press. Ten years show what the canal is good for. Oil is king at Panama today, the figures show. The tonnage of oils, chiefly crude and refined petroleum, passing through from the Pacific to the Atlantic exceeds the total of all other products.

"From the United States' Industrial

Declares New Glands Give Sheep More Wool

Liege, Belgium.—Dr. Serge Voronoff, famous French surgeon, addressing a scientific congress here, claimed it would be possible to increase the yield of wool by applying his gland transplantation operation to sheep.

Although the operation cannot be performed successfully on all sheep, he said, he hoped to be able to create a special breed by operation on the direct descendants of a certain number of picked specimens.

The experiment was already being made, he announced, on a flock of 3,000 sheep in Algeria, and also on a number of goats.

east coast exchanging its particular types of wood for the west coast's native trees. Wheat from western Canada instead of flowing to Europe by the lakes and rivers of the St. Lawrence system, goes to Vancouver now and is shipped to England via Colon.

All Kinds of Odors.

"All the odors, scents and smells rising from a crowded Far East port cannot match those at Panama. Tankers with blood from South America, camphor from Japan, algarobilla from Andes forests, garlic, hair, cassia and whale oils from the Far East, iodine from Chile, perfume from France, onions from California, peanuts and pungent ammonia from Baltimore, all mix at Panama. But probably no port in Araby dissipates its stenches and its scents in sanitary oxygen and antiseptic sunshine as Panama does. The Canal Zone, from Panama City on the Pacific to Cristobal and Colon on the Caribbean, is as spotless and well swept as a Dutch kitchen.

"In ten years more than 25,000 ships have transited the canal. These ships paid for this privilege $97,892,000; a sum equal to more than one-fourth the total construction cost. An average of 14 vessels a day now passes through the canal and each day the United States collects $65,000 tolls."

Has New Device to Record Quakes

Greater Accuracy Is Also Promised by Savant.

Washington.—The Georgetown university seismological observatory, which in the last 13 years has given to the world first news of many earthquakes, now assures the public that its reports in the future will be even more dependable.

The university today has among its instruments a new seismograph, known as the Galitzin vertical seismograph, the only one of its kind on this side of the Atlantic.

The special features of this delicate piece of apparatus are magnetic registration and photographic recording, whereby the element of friction in the other types of machines is entirely eliminated. Accordingly, the machine will permit of the recording of many more of the world's quakes and permit of a more accurate interpretation of the writings of a shaking earth.

Doctor Sieberg of the Jena seismological station places the number of quakes felt sensibly or instrumentally the world over from 9,000 to 10,000 yearly. Of these in the past only from 90 to 110 have been annually recorded of Georgetown. Father Francis A. Tondorf, director of the observatory, hopes that this number may now reach from 300 to 400.

When it first was founded in 1911 the Georgetown observatory had only one seismograph—of the Weichert type. It carried a stationary mass of 80 kilos. The rocking during windstorms of the south tower of the Healy building, in whose base the instruments were at first placed, necessitated their removal to a cave beneath the quadrangle.

Father Tondorf inaugurated the work at Georgetown when, in 1910, the International Seismological society requested the Jesuit order, with many colleges in the United States, to establish a chain of stations in this country.

Standing Room Only Puts "Pep" in the Turk

Constantinople.—The new prefect of Constantinople, Emin Bey, to instill the spirit of "bustle" into the prefecture officials, has given orders that no chairs be allowed in any office except the chairs occupied by the officials themselves.

This is intended to discourage the inveterate habit of Turkish officials of comfortably installing their business visitors, treating them to coffee, and gossiping interminably without getting down to business.

Belfast.—Newtownkelly is the name of a new town which has sprung from the venture of Sir Samuel Kelly, wealthy mine owner, and which is said to be the greatest commercial undertaking ever attempted single handed in Ireland.

He has successfully prospected for coal, sunk two deep shafts, constructed overhead equipment and laid eight railway sidings. Colliers which he brought from Cumberland and Scotland live in the new town.

Turtle, Dated 1884, Is Found Twice by Man

Woerner is living with his daughter, Mrs. Edward Smith, at present. The same turtle was found by Reel once before about 100 yards from where it was discovered this time.

TIRE NOT BLOWN OUT

Boyer, Fatally Injured Racer, Lost Control of Car at Altoona.

Contrary to the general belief, that the left rear tire on the car driven by Joe Boyer, Jr., at the races at the Altoona speedway on Labor Day, in which he was fatally injured, the tire did not blow out. When the racing machine was taken from the track and the tires removed, experts from the factory, sent to Altoona to make a thorough examination and test of the tires, found that the tire on the left rear wheel was not blown out, neither was there a puncture, as sometimes happens when tires pick up splinters from the board track. In fact, the tire was not actually worn out, only the tread being gone from the casing.

Tires for racing machines are specially built for hard wear. The fabric used in their construction is such that a blow-out is very rare, it being stated by a tire expert that in his experience with races, he found but one actual blow out.

At the terrific rate at which these cars are driven, accident prevention depends entirely upon the driver's ability to steer the car so the rear wheels will have no opportunity to slip sideways, or "skid" in an automobile parlance. In Boyer's case, the car got beyond his control and at the terrific rate he was traveling, the time was too short and the space too narrow to right the machine.

OVER THE COUNTY

The paving on Allen street, State College, was finally completed last week, and as soon as is practicable the thoroughfare will be opened for traffic, after having been blocked all summer.

Although the fish may be weak the spirit is willing with Isaac Miller, of Bellefonte, and John Decker, of Spring Mills. The pair, the former of whom is 84, and the latter, 89, took out hunting licenses recently for the 1924 season.

Dave Barlett, the efficient freight and passenger agent of the P. R. R. at Beech Creek, whose station burned down some time ago, has opened for business in an old freight car along the track. A new station will be built as soon as possible.

A banner crowd attended the Grange picnic at Centre Hall last week, the attractions, and the attendance being the best ever known in the 51 years of the fair's existence. The grounds were in better condition than ever before, the weather was excellent most of the time, and in fact everything seemingly contributed toward making it the best fair ever held.

Saturday, Aug 30th, was the day of the first annual home coming picnic at Scotia. Men who worked there when the iron ore mines flourished under Andrew Carnegie, were present and met those who worked later under the employ of the Bellefonte Furnace Co. They gathered from all over the state and spent the time talking over the good, old days when Scotia was a boom town, numbering about 400 residents.

Shaw-Price Reunion.

The first annual reunion of the Price and Shaw families was held at Snow Shoe on Labor Day, and from the success which attended the affair it promises to be one of the most popular reunions in that section. About 70 members of the family were present, with their friends, having gathered from Pittsburgh, Clymer, Howard, Osceola Mills and other towns, as well as the home town through from Snow Shoe. Jim Shaw's band kept the crowd in a merry mood throughout the day. Some wonderful examples of Welsh folk dancing were given by several of the older members of the clan. The chicken dinner was an important part of the program, as were also the athletic events. There was something doing all the time, not a dull moment or a sad face being seen in the crowd all day.

GIVEN LIFE TERMS

Leopold and Loeb Escape Hanging for Murder in Chicago.

Judge Caverly, at Chicago on Wednesday, sentenced Leopold and Loeb, murderers of young Franks, to life imprisonment on the charge of murder, and to 99 years for kidnapping.

The murder of young Franks was one of the most horrible crimes in modern history. Leopold and Loeb, sons of wealthy parents, had their case tried before Judge Caverly, fearing that any jury would convict them. They entered pleas of guilty, and submitted their cases to Judge Caverly on the ground of mental irresponsibility, because of their youthful age. They were defended by Clarence Darrow, the foremost criminal lawyer in the country. About a half million dollars was spent at the trial.

Many persons predict that it will be but a matter of time when both murderers are given their liberty.

William H. Payne Dead.

William H. Payne, after a gallant fight of over a year's duration, finally succumbed to tuberculosis of the throat brought on by being gassed while serving with the army in France. About a year ago the unfortunate young man, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. G. C. Payne, took up his residence at Roswell, New Mexico, where he died last Friday evening at 6:30. Deceased was born at Roanoke, Va., April 9, 1896, thereby being in his 28th year. In addition to his mother, he is survived by two brothers and a sister: John and Gideon, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Paul Seaton, of Roanoke, Va. "Bill," as he was familiarly known to a host of friends and acquaintances here, graduated from the Bellefonte High School in 1915. After his return from the army, he entered State College, where he graduated in 1923. He was president of the student council during his last year at college, and was a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Military funeral services were held on Wednesday morning from the home of his brother John. The body was carried from the home to the church and thence to the cemetery on the machine gun truck of Troop A, of Boalsburg, of which the deceased was 1st Lieutenant. Officers of the 52nd M. G. Squadron from Lewistown, Boalsburg and Bellefonte, and the American Legion marched ahead of the caisson, with members of Troop A, mounted on horses formed a military escort. Six fraternity brothers acted as pall bearers. Rev. Maynard conducted the services at the church and cemetery.

Elmer Sunday Dead.

Elmer Sunday, aged 58 years, a highly esteemed and well known citizen of Ferguson Township, passed away at his home recently after a long illness of throat trouble. He was a son of Emanuel and Lydia Gates Sunday, early settlers of Fairbrook. In 1888 he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Kustner, and to them one son was born. He was a member of the Lutheran church, as well as a member of the Masonic lodge at State College, and the Penna Valley Lodge of the I. O. O. F. He is survived by his son Wilber and his aged mother, also four brothers. Brief services were held at the late home on Saturday morning.

Howard G. Hurd Dead.

Howard G. Hurd, of Jersey Shore, formerly superintendent of the Centre Brick & Clay Co. plant at Oristown, and at one time a farmer in Nittany valley, died at his home Wednesday of last week, following a long illness. He was born at Mill Hall Dec. 29, 1852, and was in his 71st year. Surviving are his wife, 3 sons, Philip, of Jersey Shore; Paul, at home, and Gilbert, of Lock Haven; also 5 sisters, Mary, of Lock Haven; Mrs. John Harris, of Lamar; Margaret, of Williamsport; Mrs. W. E. Nixon, of Lock Haven, and Mrs. S. W. Eddy, of Jersey Shore.

John Armstrong Dead.

John Armstrong, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Palmer, at Potters Mills, last Sunday evening about 7 o'clock, having been ill since October. Deceased was born at Potters Mills, Sept. 19, 1867, a son of James and Catherine Carson Armstrong. He was unmarried and is survived by a sister, Mrs. Palmer. Funeral services were held in the Methodist church at Sprucetown, on Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Sherman officiating. Interment at Sprucetown.

Mrs. George Potter Dead.

Ellen Jane Potter, wife of George Potter, died at her home at Centre Hall on last Saturday morning from Bright's disease. Deceased was born at Farmer's Mills, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Garbrick, and was aged 69 years, 3 months and 17 days. She is survived by her husband and a number of children. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Bligaman from the late home, on Monday morning. Interment at Centre Hall.

Death of Infant

George Howard, six month old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, of Half Moon Terrace, died at the home of his parents on Friday evening, for a complication of diseases. The little tot had been sick about ten days. He is survived by his parents and a sister, Mary, aged about 3 years. Funeral services were held on Monday.

One-sixth of the income to be paid to Robert Morris, with the same provisions as to disposition in the event of his death.

One-sixth of the income to be paid to Alexander G. Morris, Jr., with like provisions as to disposition at his death. All of the remainder of the estate is willed outright to Miss Eliza Egbert Morris, her heirs and assigns.

MAINE HEAVILY REPUBLICAN

Victory at Tuesday's Contest Forecasts Coolidge Triumph.

Maine registered a decisive Republican victory at Tuesday's election. "As goes Maine, so goes the nation," is the interpretation placed on the re-election of United States Senator B. M. Fernald, Republican, over F. J. Redman, Democrat, by 50,000. Both Republican and Democratic national committees waged energetic campaigns because of the moral effect the result will have in the presidential campaign throughout the country. John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for president, was visibly disappointed with the outcome.

President Coolidge, whose triumphant election in November is regarded as clearly foreshadowed by the Republican sweep in Maine, sent the following telegram to George L. Emery, Republican State Chairman, in Maine:

"Accept my congratulations on the significant and decisive victory for the Republican ticket in the State of Maine."

"All Nations Marching to Armageddon."

A very large and appreciative audience listened to the lecture given under auspices of the local I. B. S. A. on Sunday afternoon in Noll's Hall at Pleasant Gap, by D. B. Allison, of Altoona, on the above subject. The speaker took as his text Rev. 16:16, saying in part that Armageddon began in 1914, with the starting of the World war, followed by famines, earthquakes, pestilences, etc. (Matt. 24th chapter) and all nations are marching to the final conflict—the battle of truth against error. Man's efforts in establishing peace will prove unavailing. (1 Thess. 5:1-3) but in the days of these kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed (Dan 2:44) and soon they shall beat their swords into ploughshares and spears into pruning hooks and nations shall learn war no more. Who would not welcome the glorious reign of Christ, the Prince of Peace! The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand!

STYLE SHOW NEXT WEEK

Altoona Merchants Making Great Preparations for Fall Season's Opening.

Members of the Altoona Booster Association are now engaged in making preparation for their annual Fall Style Show scheduled for next week starting Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock and continuing until Saturday.

The approaching Fall and Winter season will be marked by a number of radical changes in makes and styles and it will be the purpose of Booster merchants to display in their stores just what are the proper things to wear and to decorate the home.

Some of the merchants have arranged elaborate programs in connection with the big event and every woman and every man for that matter within Altoona's buying zone should make it a point to visit the stores during one of the Style Show days.

The windows, in all their competitive beauty, will be unveiled Tuesday evening September 16th at 7:30 o'clock. All during the evening music will be furnished by the Altoona City Band and the business district in general will present a holiday appearance.

A cordial invitation is extended to you to be among the crowds.

Over one-third of all the tobacco chewers in the United States have proved that.

The demand for BEECH-NUT Chewing Tobacco alone is more than 250 million packages in a single year.

That's because we didn't let tobacco growers, labor, manufacturing costs, State, Federal and revenue taxes collect their increases from the quality or the weight.

BEECH-NUT Chewing Tobacco is the same in 1924 as in 1915. Still the most of the best for 10c—still the best chew at any price—still the favorite everywhere.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College.

WEED OUT THE YOUNG FLOCK—The time is at hand to weed out all cull pullets and cockerels which may be in your flock of young stock. These birds should be sent to market or consumed at home. This will make more room for the more promising birds.

FALL PLANTING OF LAWNS—Late August or September is the best period to fall seed the lawn. The advantage of fall preparation and planting is that the grass becomes sufficiently rooted to resist summer droughts the following season and is in condition to crowd out weeds. If the ground is lacking in humus, it may be advisable to sow wheat or rye in the early fall, turn this under for a green manure, and sow grass in the spring.

FOR THE WOOD LOT—Spring is usually the time to plant forest trees. Fall and winter are the seasons for thinning young stands. Make your plans now for both of these pieces of work that will make the wood lot a paying proposition.

FLOWERS FOR FALL PLANTING—More real satisfaction and pleasure can be obtained from hardy perennials—or the "old fashioned garden flowers"—as they are often called—than from any other class of plants. This is especially true of peonies, delphinium (larkspur) phlox, iris, hollyhocks, foxglove and hardy chrysanthemum. Many of these perennials can be produced from seed sown now and thus save a year. September is also a good month to move and divide iris and peony roots.

New Dairy Specialist.

The dairy department of the Pennsylvania State College has announced the appointment of C. D. Dahle, of Minnesota, as associate professor of dairy manufacture to take the place vacated by W. B. Combs who resigned to become head of the dairy manufacturing department at the University of Minnesota. Dahle comes to Pennsylvania well trained in every branch of the dairy industry. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1920 and received his master's degree the following year. Since then, he has been employed in teaching and research work at the same institution and has completed several outstanding research projects in dairy manufacturing. With the resignation of Professor Combs, who has been head of the dairy manufacturing division at Penn State for several years, W. M. Martin takes charge of the dairy manufacturing work at the college. Martin has been with the department for five years and has a thorough understanding of the problems of the dairy manufacturing industry in Pennsylvania.

Get-Out-Vote Caravan.

The "Get-out-the-vote" caravan, headed by women endeavoring to arouse Pennsylvania women voters for the approaching election, is scheduled for Lock Haven and Bellefonte on Oct. 8. Local automobiles are to meet it at the county line and conduct it on its way to Phillipsburg. There will be material for decorating automobiles and speakers to address the towns through which it passes. Any organization or individual that wishes to join in this effort to make our country a better Democracy will please send word to Mrs. Robert Mills Beach, Bellefonte, chairman.

Arrest Speed Trap Squire.

Many Centre County motorists who have had to pay fines and costs will read with interest and no regrets of the arrest at Mill Creek of Burgess Foust, of that place, who holds the dual role of burgess and justice of the peace, and is known as the "speed trap squire." He has been charged with violating the law relative to finding delinquent automobilists. All of the William Penn highway complaints have come from motorists who have been caught in what is known as the Mill Creek speed trap and which has been maintained by Burgess Foust with the aid of two watchful officers stationed at either end of the alleged speed trap. Burgess Foust is specially charged with collecting fines and dividing them with his two officers and keeping no record of the number of fines.

Sportsmen's Picnic.

Each year there are at least 57 different organizations holding picnics in Centre County, but the big event this year is the sportsmen's picnic to be held at Lakeside Park, Morrisdale, Sept. 19. Every sportsman and his family and friends is invited to this affair. Hon. Seth E. Gordon, executive secretary of the Game Commission; Mr. Spencer, member of the State Fish Commission, and L. E. Staley, of the Forestry Department, will be the principal speakers. The State-Center Game, Fish & Forestry Assn. is back of this gathering of sportsmen of Centre and Clearfield counties and the various committees are working hard to make the affair a big success. There will be trap and target shooting, fancy rifle shooting, sports for the ladies and children. Dancing afternoon and evening. Every red blooded sportsman is invited and is expected to bring his family and friends.

New Physical Director at "Y."

J. Fred Pandel has been engaged as Physical Director by the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A., and is now busy preparing for the opening of the gymnasium classes this month. The first class will be held for the juniors on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 17. Mr. Pandel comes to this position well prepared to present a very active physical program, having been under the leadership of Physical Director J. S. Koller, of the Burnham Y. M. C. A. for 8 years. He is a splendid gymnast and basketball player. Basketball will have a prominent place on his program this year.

Want Women as Engineers.

A new educational field for women students may soon be opened up. This is in industrial and engineering work. Dean R. L. Sackett, of the Penna. State College school of engineering has just received a request from a prominent engineering firm asking him to recommend women graduates for employment on the design of steam turbines and other mechanical engineering apparatus. Penn State turned out a full-fledged woman engineer in 1921 when Miss Frances Hoesfeld completed the course in industrial engineering. However, practically no other women students have attempted the difficulties of an engineering course.

Other parties advocate radical changes that lead to socialism.

The last of many experiments in socialism is Russia.

There have its practical results.

Let us see what advanced socialists have to say about Russia.

Emma Goldman was the most pronounced anarchist in the United States; so violent that she was deported. She went to Russia with high hopes for a new social order. She left that country sad and disillusioned. Bolshevism, she says, "has built up a state as capitalistic and militaristic as was ever the Russian Czars, but which allows considerable less individual freedom."

Fanny Hurst is another advanced communist. This is what she says after a visit to Russia:

"Sovietism is a great beast, half-stupid, half mad, on its back in death agony."

"In every one's face you see nothing but fear, overwhelming fear."

"Russia is chaos, with poverty among the bourgeois as well as the professional classes, and squalor and filth everywhere."

And yet at one time both were ardent supporters

Health Talks

STOMACH GAS

Probably nothing embarrasses one more than to belch gas in the presence of others. It is so ill-bred. And to say "Pardon me" isn't enough, for the trouble should be corrected at its source.

The normal stomach, during digestion, generates some gas, but not enough to be ejected through the mouth. Bitter or foul-tasting gases often indicate gastric trouble, bile on stomach or other digestive derangement. Belching gas is a symptom of stomach trouble and should be heeded at once, for even slight digestive ailments may develop into serious disease.

Doctors now prescribe Jacques' Digestive Capsules for belching gas, biliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation. Jacques' Capsules act quickly and pleasantly. Taken regularly, they correct chronic cases. 60 cents at all druggists, or direct from Jacques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

WIFE BEATING IN MARYLAND TOWN IS HALTED

Ancient Law Recently Revived in State a Deterrent.

Hagerstown, Md.—Wife beating is out of style in Hagerstown. Before Lewis Longbeam battered his wife's face almost to a pulp and then asked the judge what he was going to do about it, wife-beating was commonplace. But when Judge Scott Bower answered Longbeam with: "I'm going to sentence you to 15 lashes," the practice suddenly waned.

Along with several others of the blue laws, the whipping law still stands good on the Maryland statute books. It had seldom been invoked, but Judge Bower, glancing down the docket, noticed the growing number of wife-beating cases. He announced that the next case to come before him would be treated as of old. And Longbeam's case happened to be next.

With a blackened, swollen eye and several teeth missing, Mary Longbeam looked on interestedly as her husband was haled before the bar. But as the judge pronounced sentence, her manner changed.

Wife Would Wield Lash.

Pressing her way to the front of the courtroom, she addressed the judge. "Let me lash him, judge! I'll stand on my toes and cut the blood out of his back. Let me give him a dose of his own medicine. What chance has a frail woman against a brute like him? He slaps me as if I were a child. He beats me about like a chair. He beats me like a dog. Let me lash him, judge!"

But the Maryland law provides specifically that the lashing be administered by the sheriff, so Mary Longbeam lost her chance to hand her husband a bit of his own medicine.

The Man Gasped and Grit His Teeth.

Sheriff Duffey got out the old, cat-o'-nine-tails, with its five rawhide thongs each split in two. As Longbeam had been sentenced to 15 lashes, this meant 150 stinging cuts in his back.

Thousands Listen for Walls.

Longbeam was taken to a vacant section of the jail, handcuffed to the bars of a cell, and the sheriff began his punishment. Outside thousands waited, hushed, hoping to hear the screams of the wife-beater getting a dose of his own medicine.

The cat-o'-nine-tails whistled through the air and its ends bit into the flesh of Longbeam's bare back. The man gasped and grit his teeth. After ten lashes the flesh shaded from a fiery red to a greenish blue. When the fifteenth lash cut in, it tore the flesh on his left shoulder blade and the blood trickled down and soaked into the white underclothes drawn back over his belt.

Outside the jail gate his wife was waiting. As he came out she shook her fist in his face and cried:

"You brute. I hope they gave it to you good. If only they'd let me lash you! You'd never walked out of here. You'd have been carried."

But, regardless of whether the lashing was severe enough to suit the beaten wife, wife beating has taken a decided slump in Hagerstown.

Girls Must Not Wear "Knickers" in Louisiana

Hammond, La.—The newly ordained law of the county commissioners of Livingston parish prohibiting, among other things, the one-piece bathing suits, kissing, "petting" parties and the wearing of trousers by women, had its first tryout when two pretty nurses, claiming to hail from Mississippi, were arrested at Denham Springs, charged with wearing "knickers." They were taken before a justice of the peace, entered pleas of guilty and were assessed fines of $5 each.

Plans to Cross Sea in "Unsinkable" Boat

Manchester.—A craft 12 feet long will shortly start on a journey across the Atlantic with its bulider and skipper, William Oldham, at the helm, according to an announcement given out by Oldham.

The boat is made of steel, with eight water-tight chambers, which the bulider claims makes it unsinkable. Oldham proposes to propel the boat by his feet, and is fixing pedals for that purpose, but the pedals can also be used with the hands, which will give William an occasional rest.

NEW STYLE IN MILLINERY; SIMPLE SWEATER IS POPULAR

JUST now plain, smart felt hats and simple tailored hats are selling freely—for school girls must be hatted and everyone else equipped for the interim between summer and winter. In the meantime, behind the scenes in millinery shops, preparations are going forward for the first displays of winter millinery. They are due to arrive in September or very early in October.

A decided change in millinery styles will greet those enterprising women narrow braid and adorned with Chinese embroidery.

To women of fashion, this simple sweater type is an outstanding note of smart appeal this season. In fact, with those who lead in the art of dress, the idea of unaffected knitted outfits, has become a hobby, to the extent that the simple sweater, call it slipon, jumper or pullover, as you please, with pleated skirt declares style personified.

A charming sight it is to note wom-who go out to meet the mode at the opening events. No longer the little, close-fitting hat flaunts its leadership. Its place has been usurped by more spirited hats, high crowned and brimmed. Tall, square crowns with varied brims, helmets, sailors and soft picture hats, have lured our wayward fancies away from the simple cloche. It remains only in company with a little brim which usually turns saucily up at the front and which adds to the charm.

A glimpse of the incoming modes is provided by the group of hats pictured here. Hatters' plush and other plushes, velvet, felt, velours, corded silks, afford the backgrounds for the season's rich but simple trappings. These are of ostrich or other feathers.

en high in social status, and of means unlimited, clad, as they are so often these days, in white woolen skirts over-bloused with sweaters of white wool, bespeaking naive simplicity. While all white knitted apparel is of outstanding importance and is assured a continuance of favor throughout the coming months, there is also a decided inclination toward warm colors which tone in with the autumn landscape. The radiant tomato red, pin-striped with plain knit white, the chosen color scheme for the sweater in the picture, seems to reflect the very sunset glow of harvest time. It is one of the newest jumper models acclaimed by fashion authorities. Knitted of the finest of mohair, it gives a cobweb appearance, yet it

"Shaver the Sphinx" Is Far From Dumb

It seems there are two Sphinxes in the Presidential campaign—the "Silent Sphinx" of Pat Harrison's keynote speech at the Democratic convention and the ordinary garden variety of Sphinx. Anyway, "Shaver the Sphinx" is what the West Virginians call the chairman of the Democratic National committee. They say he's a regular tightwad when it comes to words. Just the same there are several subjects on which Clem L. (Clement Lawrence) Shaver is far from being dumb. Among them are the great outdoors, bass fishing, fox hunting, farming and American history.

"Hobbies?" says "Shaver the Sphinx." "I haven't any, unless you call fishing, fox hunting and love of nature hobbies. I love nothing better than fishing for bass in Buffalo creek, one of the tributaries to the south fork of the Potomac. I have two fishing camps on that watershed. American history is also a 'hobby.' I'm very anxious to have the early history of West Virginia preserved. My great-great-grandfather was Peter Shaver, one of those hardy Virginians who followed the deer trails into the wilderness of West Virginia.

"And I like farming so well," he continued, "that I have four farms. There I raise chickens and thoroughbred cattle. I have developed a strain of fox-hounds that have been named after me."

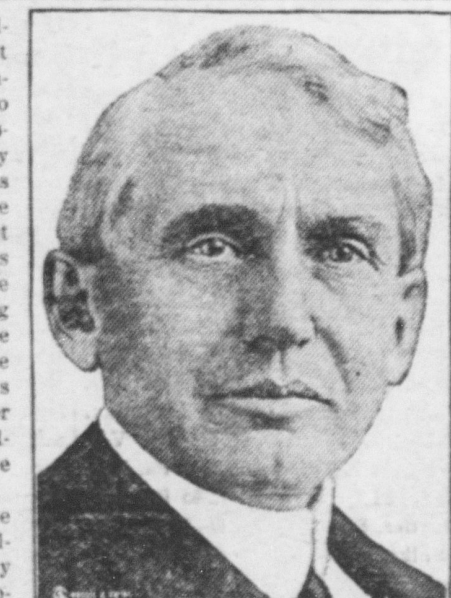

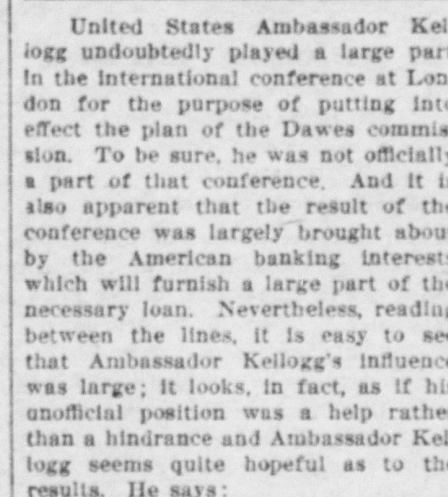

Literary Mind of Henry Cabot Lodge

United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who has been in congress so long—four terms in the house, and in the senate since 1893—that he almost seems a part of the capitol, is convalescent from an operation in a Boston hospital. Ten years ago he had an operation. And this moved the Boston Sunday Globe to reprint from Scribner's Magazine of that time an article by Senator Lodge with the title, "The Divisions of a Convalescent." Senator Lodge was born in Boston in 1850. The Congressional Directory's biography says, "Profession, that of literature." He is the author of works to the number of a score or more.

The article reprinted from Scribner's Magazine is a remarkable exposition of the workings of what one might call "the literary mind." For almost as soon as consciousness had returned his mind occupied itself in wandering off among poems and plays centuries old, recalling of its own volition favorite passages, which his memory faithfully recited for his enjoyment. Not a thought of politics or of the business of government or of personal affairs entered his head apparently. By and by he began to read, at first old books and later new ones. And finally "the cares which infest the day" came crowding in and he knew he was well again. One wonders if he had the same experience this time.

Kellogg at the International Conference

United States Ambassador Kellogg undoubtedly played a large part in the international conference at London for the purpose of putting into effect the plan of the Dawes commission. To be sure, he was not officially a part of that conference. And it is also apparent that the result of the conference was largely brought about by the American banking interests which will furnish a large part of the necessary loan. Nevertheless, reading between the lines, it is easy to see that Ambassador Kellogg's influence was large; it looks, in fact, as if his unofficial position was a help rather than a hindrance and Ambassador Kellogg seems quite hopeful as to the results. He says:

"I believe this settlement is the dawning of a new day, the hope of millions of people, the revival of industry and prosperity so necessary to the happiness and progress of mankind. Animosities engendered by the war cannot continue. Nations, as individuals, must live in amity, and this conference is the beginning of the harmony which prefigures the brighter future."

Frank Billings Kellogg was born in 1856 at Potsdam, N. Y., and went to Minnesota with his parents in 1865. He was admitted to the bar in 1877 and married Clara M. Cook of Rochester, Minn., in 1896. He moved to St. Paul in 1887. He served in the United States senate, 1917-23. He was president of the American Bar association, 1912-13. He was appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James in 1924.

Walton's Come-Back Shames Fiction

If you read it in fiction you'd say "Boah!"—a career like that of John Callaway Walton. For he was ousted from the governorship of Oklahoma by legislative impeachment and now he has been nominated at the very next primary election—for the United States senatorship. Where is there anything like it in American politics.

Walton was impeached and removed from office last November, the charges against him involving corruption in office, wilful neglect of duty, incompetency and moral turpitude. Undismayed, he started his effort at a political comeback. He announced his candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination and carried his cause directly to the voters, charging that his impeachment had been "framed" and was largely the result of the bitter fight he had waged against the Ku Klux Klan. In his campaign he said he recognized the Klan as "the only issue" and denounced it in all his speeches. His Republican opponent in the November election will be W. B. Pine, Oklahoma oil millionaire, who had the endorsement of the Klan, and in the coming campaign the Klan is expected to be the predominant issue, with party lines relegated to the background.

Walton was inaugurated January 8, 1922. A gigantic barbecue at the state fair grounds, attended by approximately 100,000 persons, was one feature of the inaugural.

Order Armored Cars for Mail

Government, Alarmed at $2,075,000 Raid in West, Takes Precautions.

New York.—As a precaution against any recurrence anywhere in the United States of a mail train robbery such as the spectacular hold-up near Chicago on June 12 last, in which $2,075,000 in money and bonds was stolen, the Post Office department has developed a specially designed mail car, armored heavily to withstand assaults and equipped with numerous protective devices.

The Post Office department has contracted for 3,000 such cars. One has already been delivered. This car has met with the approval of inspectors and, if a prospective test demonstrates that it meets the requirements, the government, it is understood, will proceed with the contract for the full order of 3,000.

Though the Post Office department had for some time been contemplating an improved type of mail car, it was when the Chicago hold-up occurred, committed in daring fashion against a crew of 70 mail employees, that the department decided to rush matters and hasten the production of the cars.

Eight robbers, riding in four automobiles, on the night of June 12 held up at Rondout, Ill., 32 miles north of Chicago, a special mail train on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad. Gas bombs were used. Forty pouches of mail were taken.

Feared More Such Attacks.

The complete success of the robbers' daring exploit convinced the government that a new type of car must be produced immediately, lest other gangs make similar and possibly equally successful attacks.

Instructions were given that the new car must be amply protected against heavy rifle and pistol fire from robbers.

Besides being heavily armored, the car is provided with a system of specially contrived door locks that would seem to make it impossible for anybody to gain entrance without the knowledge and co-operation of those inside the car. Slits have been provided for the use of employees handling rifles and pistols. The protective features are said to be somewhat along the lines of those employed in the armored motor tanks of the World war, allowing space only for the firing slits and for the ventilating apparatus.

Modeled on Express Boxes.

The government is said to have obtained some of its ideas for the new car from the effective protection given by the new types of steel express boxes, a number of which are placed on flat cars in such position that they cannot be tampered with without being removed. These are heavily plated and tests have proved these plates strong enough to ward off bullet fire.

For a long time the Post Office department has been apprehensive about mail train robberies. Losses have run as high as $6,000,000 in one year, to say nothing of the killing and wounding of clerks and guards. The robberies at one time were so persistent that a reward of $5,000 was offered by Will Hays, then postmaster general, for the capture of a mail robber. The award of $2,000 to the Orange, N. J., mail clerk who killed a robber on a railroad station platform, was an example of the anxiety of the department and its readiness to show appreciation of such acts.

The authorities recognize that train hold-ups are not haphazard adventures of reckless criminals, but are the result of carefully planned and frequently rehearsed details, sometimes laid down in cities far from the scene of the proposed robbery and often involving many participants. Because of the precision of these plans and the knowledge of the robbers of the movements of trains, their usual stopping places

Famous Regiment Is Reorganized

Third Coast Artillery First Saw Service on July 1, 1794.

San Pedro, Cal.—Reconstituted as the Third coast artillery, historically famous fighting unit of the United States army which first saw service on July 1, 1794, recently reopened its history at Fort MacArthur, near here, under the command of Maj. George Ruhlen, Jr.

Battle ribbons won on home and foreign fields during the last 130 years fluttered from the color standards as "The Fighting Third" was ceremoniously reconstituted at the fort.

The Third regiment of artillery came into being following the Revolutionary war. It was recruited among the veterans of that war for service against the Indians in the conquest of the West.

It first became prominent among fighting units on February 22-23, 1847, at the battle of Buena Vista. Gen. Santa Anna, commanding the Mexican forces, had swept all American resistance before him.

for water and other details, the government investigators have undertaken to combat these conspiracies with protective measures designed to meet any emergency.

Without infantry to support him, and at the expense of losing his own guns, Captain Bragg, then commanding "The Fighting Third," brought his troops into action with a withering charge of canister. The first charge halted the Mexican advance.

The smoke from the second and third salvos cleared away with the Mexicans in rout. Thus the regiment won its present motto, "Saved the Day," which was conferred upon it by Gen. Zachary Taylor, following the engagement.

Through the War of 1812 and in the Florida peninsula campaigns the regiment served the colors creditably. In the California campaigns it was present at Monterey, Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo, Buena Vista and the final engagement at Molino del Rey. It was present when the opening gun of the war was fired at Palo Alto, May 8, 1846, and took part in all major engagements.

On December 21, 1853, five batteries of the Third artillery embarked from the east coast for station in California, via Cape Horn, aboard the steamer San Francisco. Of the 600 souls aboard, 500 were men of the Third. On the day before Christmas the San Francisco struck a northwest gale that completely disabled her, and during which 175 men were lost overboard.

American Ships Aid Derelict. A week later assistance was rendered the derelict by the American ships Kilby and Three Bells and the British sloop of war Antarctic. The latter vessel carried 142 survivors to Liverpool, the first American troops to land in England.

After a year's trials and misfortunes the Third again assembled, and arrived in California, where it was actively engaged in marching and scouting until the outbreak of the Civil war, when its history was marked with distinction.

It served at the memorable capture of Manila, P. I., during the Spanish-American war, and was broken up into separate companies in 1901 to form the artillery corps of the army. Parts of the famous Third saw action on all the fronts of France during the World war.

Goes High to Hatch

Magnolia, Ark.—A hen story that surpasses some recent fish stories comes from J. R. Griffin, who owns a farm near Bussey. He says a hen of his flock stole her nest and hatched a brood of chickens in a hollow tree 25 feet from the ground. She was not discovered until she hatched her brood, when she was brought down by one of the farm hands.

Attach Tags to Salmon to Trace Their Travels

Juneau, Alaska.—Movements of salmon of various species from the North Pacific ocean to their spawning grounds in the southeastern Alaska district will be charted this summer for the first time in history, according to Assistant Fisheries Agent E. M. Ball.

Five thousand salmon will be tagged, released and a reward of 50 cents each offered for their return with the information of how, when and where captured.

The reward is a big one for fishermen who are accustomed to obtain only 25 cents for a large salmon at fishing ports.

Build Radio in Alps

Munich.—Bavaria is to have the highest radio broadcasting station in Europe. The station will be opened on top of Mount Herzogsstand, in the Alps, 5,000 feet above sea level. The antennae will have a length of 3,200 feet, stretching from the mountain top to the valley.

Some Truth in This

Complaint of Writer

French postal employees are demanding more money, and if they don't get it they threaten to read all the postal cards passing through the mails. If they did such a thing in this country the public could retaliate by writing all postal cards with post-office pens.

If you have ever tried to wield one of these literary implements you will gather at once what we mean.

The man who said the pen is mightier than the sword, wasn't thinking of the kind they harbor in United States post offices.

There is only one thing more useless than a post office pen. That is the post office ink.

Someone wrote to a scientific magazine the other day to find out what becomes of the national crop of deceased flies. They lie buried and mummified in the so-called ink of a great nation's post offices. There they sleep their silent years away until someone comes along and tries to write a letter with them.

The curse of the post office pen is creeping paralysis. The symptoms are plain. When you begin your communication you carefully trace the contour of the letters, but with no visible results. All the afflicted pen can do is scream with pain in a dry, scratchy voice. Then, suddenly, as though striving to make amends for its prior infirmities, its muscles relax. Its foul, insubstantial throat opens and it breaks loose in a hemorrhage of mud, shoe polish, asphaltum and aerated flies.

Another national institution familiar to those of us who look after our correspondence in post office lobbies, is the harveyized or ink-proof blotter. However, we shall not tread further this pathway of disclosure lest it appear that we are endeavoring unfairly to embarrass the United States government on matters concerning which we have, perhaps, already spoken with unbecoming frankness and brutality.—The Thrift Magazine.

Bonapartes in America

While the senior branch of the Bonaparte family became extinct on the death of Prince Roland Bonaparte recently, several members of other branches are still alive.

The most interesting branch—the American—is not mentioned in the Almanach de Gotha, the continental Debutte, but it is both legitimate and influential, and one of its scions, the late Charles Joseph Bonaparte, was attorney general and secretary of the navy in the United States cabinet.

Elizabeth Patterson, whose marriage to Jerome, Napoleon's younger brother, was the starting point of the American branch, was never acknowledged by Napoleon as his sister-in-law; but, although he "annulled" the marriage on Jerome's return to Europe, this did not affect its validity.—London Answers.

Proud to the Last

"No," I spoke to myself firmly, "not another million will I give away. I have just enough for car fare now." There are so many beggars in Berlin—mostly old women they are, too. They do not solicit alms. They just stand and wait. I walked a few feet farther and there under a tree stood another shabby old woman. I walked past her quickly, but somehow I had to turn back. I thrust a million-mark note into her unwilling hand—and then too late did I realize my mistake.

She flung the money back at me and her eyes were filled with tears. "No, my fine lady," she said, "perhaps in another month I, too, shall be begging, but not yet, not yet."—Malaka R. Stern, in Survey.

A Modern Knight

It would be difficult to convince a certain Philadelphia woman that chivalry is obsolete.

"Not long ago," says she, "I met a veritable knight on a dining car. When I went in to luncheon the only seat left for me was one facing the rear of the train. Now, I cannot sit with my back toward the engine without suffering all manner of disagreeable things, so I asked the steward to find me a seat facing the other way. Immediately a middle-aged man rose and offered to let me have his seat. I thanked him, and he took the seat opposite me. He scanned the menu and then he looked at me hesitatingly.

"Madam," said he, 'would it be objectionable to you if I were to order spring onions?'"

Fair Question

"Now children," said the teacher, "I want you to understand that the time to ask questions is whenever anything is said which you wish explained. Do not wait until I have finished, and then tell me you 'did not hear.' or, 'did not understand,' when I talked to you."

The children replied: "Yes, ma'am!" in chorus.

"Very well," said the teacher, "we will begin today with James I, who came after Elizabeth."

A scholar raised his hand.

"Well," asked the teacher, "what is it?"

"What made him come after her?"—London Tit-Bits.

Saw the Connection

"Splendid!" said the youth in the smoking room, as he put down the newspaper. "I see that the price of petrol is coming down."

"Yes," rejoined one of the other members, "but I'd no idea you had a car."

"I haven't; but I've got a petrol lighter."—London Tit-Bits.

FEELS IT HIS DUTY TO TELL THE FACTS

"Tanlac has meant so much to me in the way of improved health that I feel it a duty, as well as a pleasure, to recommend it," is the appreciative statement of J. M. Freeman, well-known resident of 307 Camden St., San Antonio, Texas.

"About a year ago my stomach and digestion got all out of fix and I soon became badly run-down. My appetite went back on me and the little I did eat failed to nourish me. Constipation troubled me nearly all the time and I also had bilious spells and attacks of dizziness.

"My sleep was unsound and I got up mornings with a mean, sickening taste in my mouth and a dull headache that lasted me almost through the day. I lost considerable weight and that tired, draggy feeling was on me all the time.

"After a few days' use of Tanlac I noticed a marked improvement in my appetite, digestion and general condition. So I took four bottles and by that time I was eating as heartily as I ever did and digesting everything fine.

"My liver went to work right, my headaches stopped and I was able to sleep like a log. I had gone down to only 143 pounds, but I am now a strong man of 215 pounds, and my health is the best it has been in years. A friend of mine took four bottles of Tanlac at the same time I did and got fine results, too. As a builder of health and strength Tanlac is certainly without an equal."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

PREDICTS TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHTS IN TWO HOURS

S. Lindequist, Swedish Airplane Constructor, Grapples With High Altitude Problem.

Stockholm.—Flights between Europe and America in two hours at an altitude of ten miles and with 2,000-horsepower motors are forecast by S. Lindequist, a well-known Swedish airplane constructor, in a statement published by a leading Stockholm paper.

One of the greatest aims in aviation in the immediate future should be to cut down the flying time between continents, says Mr. Lindequist, and this probably can be done by flying at extremely high altitudes.

The effect of gravitation decreases with the increase in altitude, and it has been estimated, he says, that a plane which has a speed of 100 miles an hour near the surface of the earth can attain a speed of 1,200 miles an hour at an altitude of about ten miles.

At such a height the rarity of the atmosphere would constitute a disadvantage both to the ordinary motor and the ordinary propeller. But this difficulty can be overcome, declares Mr. Lindequist, by using a propeller with adjustable blades, so that the pitch of the blades could be altered with the density of the air, and by using special compressors for the motor which would compensate for the decrease in barometric pressure at high altitudes.

Such a motor probably would have to develop about 2,000 horsepower. Mr. Lindequist declares that the problems of the adjustable propeller and aerial compression motor can be solved.

The parade will move promptly at 1:30. All organizations should be on Linn St. at 1 o'clock.

MINISTERIUM MEETS

Bellefonte District Resumes Following Summer Recess.

The Bellefonte District Ministerium met for their first time after the recess for the summer at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday. The religious work at the jail was reported on by the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and the committee of Messrs. James Rine, J. K. Barnhart, Cyrus Solt and C. C. Shuey, was commended for the splendid service which they rendered this summer in taking care of that work.

Rev. Watson reported the financial progress of his congregation, which showed splendid work on the part of his own people and the friends supporting it.

A committee of Rev. Mr. Ard and Rev. Mr. Stealy was appointed to co-operate with the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. in formulating their policy and program of the winter's activities at the "Y" building.

Mr. Ard read a paper on "The Emotional Element in Christian Work," which was very much enjoyed by the members of the ministerium and the paper was discussed and commented on by them.

At their next meeting, on Oct. 6, Dr. A. M. Schmidt will present a subject for discussion.

Keller-Stevenson.

A wedding that was a complete surprise to the parents of the contracting parties and friends was that of Ellis O. Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller, of Bellefonte, and Miss Martha Stevenson, daughter of George Stevenson, of Waddle, solemnized at Cumberland, Md., last Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock. Plans for the trip to Cumberland were made on Friday evening, the young couple departing Saturday morning presumably for Williamsport, where the prospective groom was scheduled to play in a golf tournament. Their destination, however, proved to be Cumberland, where the nuptial ceremony was performed. They returned to Bellefonte late Sunday afternoon, and for the present are residing at the home of the groom's parents on East Linn St. The bride is a graduate of the Bellefonte High School. Following her graduation she attended a college in Virginia. At present she holds a clerical position in the publicity department of the Penna. State College. This she will retain for the present. Mr. Keller is a graduate of State College, is an instructor in the Bellefonte High School, and is well and favorably known. Their plans for the immediate future are to occupy apartments in Lemont, as the most convenient point for Mr. Keller to come to Bellefonte daily, and for his bride to continue her secretarial duties at State College.

Saylor-Morrison.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at Low Mass last Saturday morning at 7:30, by the Rev. Father Dames, when he united in marriage Miss Kathryn Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison, and Andrew Saylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Saylor. The young couple were attended by James Morrison, brother of the bride, and his fiancee, Miss Marian Bauer. Immediately after the ceremony the newlyweds departed on a week's honeymoon trip by motor to Niagara Falls and Buffalo. They were accompanied by the groom's brother, Frederick.

Harris-Lantz.

In the presence of the immediate families, Miss Elizabeth H. Lantz, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. Max Lantz, became the bride of Craydon H. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Harris, of Altoona, at Simpson Methodist church at that place, last Sunday morning. The ring ceremony of the Methodist church was performed by the bride's father, who has occupied the pulpit of several churches in Centre County, and who is well known in this section.

Teaman-Billett.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Billett on Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, when their daughter Lynette was united in marriage to Earl Teaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Teaman. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Reed O. Stealy. Immediately after a wedding breakfast the young couple departed on a wedding tour of a week's duration.

Barnhart-Morrison.

Announcement was made last week of the marriage, on Aug. 16, in Baltimore, Md., of J. Willard Barnhart to Miss Marian Morrison, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Morrison. Both are popular members of Bellefonte's younger set and are graduates of the Bellefonte High School. The groom is employed as a chemist at the laboratories of the American Lime & Stone Co.

Kuhn-Sliker.

Announcement was made at Altoona last Sunday of the marriage at the Presbyterian manse, Bellefonte, on July 28, of Irvin P. Kuhn and Miss Florence R. Sliker, both of Milesburg.

Emel-Bachman.

Wednesday evening, September 3d, at the Reformed parsonage, Chester Emel, and Miss Eleanor Bachman, both of Bellefonte, were married by the Rev. Dr. Ambrose M. Schmidt.
